This guide is a general list by subject and title of the holdings of the college archives. If you don't see what you need, or aren't sure, please feel free to contact the archives. It is best to contact the archives first before visiting, to ensure that the archivist will be available to help you.

Some general suggestions for research:

Many valuable resources are online in our Digital Commons, including all the yearbooks, histories of the college and more: <http://digitalcommons.brockport.edu/archives/>. The archives web page has a number of useful lists and indexes: <http://www.brockport.edu/archives/>, as does the guide at <http://library.brockport.edu/archives>.

The history of the college is a complex one. Since its inception in the 1830s the college has been a private academy, Normal school, Teachers college and is now a comprehensive liberal arts college. An excellent general history is Wayne Dedman's 1969 Cherishing This Heritage, available online: http://digitalcommons.brockport.edu/student_archpapers/41/

Obtaining documents and images:

The archivist can, as time and other duties permit, scan documents and photographs for email to interested researchers at no charge.
