Skoog Farm Art Exhibit at A Different Path Gallery

The Skoog Farm Workshop will be displaying art work of its members at A Different Path Gallery in Brockport, Friday, Oct. 13, from 7-9 pm. Featured artists at the exhibit will be Priya Banerjee, Brenda Cretney, and Al Cretney.

Pink Peony by Priya Banerjee

A Different Path Gallery is pleased to host artwork from the students of The Skoog Farm Workshop! Come and see their remarkable artwork that spans across various mediums and areas of interest.

The Skoog Farm Workshop was established in March, 2002 by Lori Skoog. Lori retired from teaching art in the Brockport Central School District in 1999. Her mission then became to help people from a variety of professions and backgrounds, who did not have prior experience in art, to find their hidden abilities. Lori firmly believes that everyone has the ability to find success in their art - and the key to that is learning to see, and being able to develop confidence. Unlike most art classes, all students begin with a few basic techniques and go on to work in whatever medium they are most interested in. Over the years, they have painted furniture, hand-woven bags, worked with paper mache, created collages, made note cards, and so much more.

The students featured in this year’s exhibition are Tina Eibl, Donna Mancuso, Sandy Clark, Pam Radford, Kathy Speer, Helen Hull, Shamra Westbrook, LuAnne Cenci, and Len Ippolito. The exhibition will also feature guest artists Priya Banerjee from the Department of Public Health & Health Education and formal Brockport students, Brenda Cretney and Al Cretney.

The gallery is located at 27 Market Street, Brockport and the Opening Reception for this exhibit will be held on Friday, Oct. 13 from 7–9 pm. The artwork will remain on display until Oct. 27.

You can view the exhibit Tuesdays through Saturdays from Noon-4 pm by entering through the Lightways Community Shop at 31 Market Street.

Dr. Claudette Brown-Smythe and Dr. Rafael Outland hosted a round table on "Creating Community with Ethnically Diverse Faculty: Retention Issues".
Dr. Brown-Smythe also presented a poster on "Spirituality Depression and Subjective Well-being".

Cryptburgers

They probably were great, afraid we missed them though.
In the 1960s coffee house era Brockport had its own place, the "Crypt." The Crypt was in the basement hall of St. Luke's Episcopal Church on State Street. There were many elements of the typical coffee house scene, folk musicians, poetry readings and so forth. However, in their "Crypt Burgers" they may have hit a unique note!
Attached is a pdf of an article from the Stylus in 1965 highlighting the Crypt. Come to think of it, researching this could make a great student paper. The coffee house scene, the music, the setting for activism of various sorts, perhaps finding alumni who recall that era, interviewing them..

Celebrating Open Access Week, October 23-29

Drake Memorial Library is celebrating Open Access Week, October 23-29, through a variety of events and activities. All are invited.

OA Benefits

Drake Memorial Library is celebrating Open Access Week, October 23-29. We’d like to recognize and thank faculty, staff, and students who have contributed to Brockport’s Digital Commons and encourage others to consider doing so. Please join us for any of the activities below.

• A Daily Eagle article every day will be highlighting some of the benefits of Open Access and providing useful links to more information.

• We will also be presenting a session on Wednesday, October 25, from 2:30-3:30 pm on Open Access in CELT and encourage your participation in a conversation about Open Access. Please bring comments and questions.

• Beginning Monday, through December 31, faculty and staff who deposit peer-reviewed post-print journal articles will receive a free coffee coupon in the library’s newly remodeled Aerie Café. Contact kmyers@brockport.edu for details.
• Short lunchtime open access videos will be shown from noon to 1 pm on Monday, 10/23, Tuesday, 10/24, and Thursday, 10/26, in the Library Screening room (Room 215). Bring your lunch and join us for discussion.

• A display will invite our students, faculty, and staff to respond to this year’s theme, ‘Open in order to…’ in the front of the library.

• A student photography contest of Erie Canal images encouraging the use of Creative Commons licensing will be continuing through October 29.

• A list of frequently asked questions (FAQ) is also being developed at the link below.

Healthcare Studies Professor Has Article in The Lancet

The 2013-16 Ebola virus disease outbreak in west Africa was associated with unprecedented challenges in the provision of care to patients. The development of evidence-based guidelines for future treatment of Ebola is addressed.

Dr. Afeez Hazzan, Assistant Professor from the Department of Healthcare Studies, Healthcare Administration program, has just been published in The Lancet, a prestigious medical journal. His research collaboration with other healthcare experts involved development of evidence-based guidelines for the treatment of Ebola and similar viruses in low income settings, following the 2013-16 Ebola disease outbreak in west Africa.

Why share your work in Digital Commons?

With more than 6,000 papers and over 2.2 million downloads, faculty, staff and student scholarship has reached people all over the world, raising Brockport’s institutional profile and sharing the knowledge created here in an open access manner.

Please join us on Wednesday, October 25, in Edwards 100B from 2:30 to 3:30 pm to discuss “Journal article archiving and you: Why it matters.”

Here are just a few quotes, shared with permission, from Brockport faculty:

"Each time I receive a Digital Commons report, I am amazed by the number of downloads of my reprints from all over the world. I am not sure how they are finding Brockport's Digital Commons, but it sure is working. The end result is that, hopefully, my work will be cited even more widely than at present."

Douglas A. Wilcox, PhD, PWS, Empire Innovation Professor of Wetland Science

“In writing an open-access textbook for OpenSUNY, I became a huge fan of OA publishing for both teaching and scholarly resources, and I’m excited to see such efforts grow.”

Amy Guptill, Associate Professor and Chair, Department of Sociology
“As an applied researcher I want my materials in the hands of teachers to assist them in instructing students with disabilities in physical education. I appreciate that my materials are easily accessed on Digital Commons.”

Dr. Cathy Houston-Wilson, Professor & Chair, Department of Kinesiology, Sport Studies and Physical Education

“Open access journals are great because everyone can see them easily — you do not need a subscription. Publishing in an open access journal gives the scientific community greater access to my work, and it means that my work will be referenced more often. Those are 2 really nice advantages.”

Adam Rich, PhD, Associate Professor, Biology

“For me, it had been a very nice experience because I had been able to share my work with more colleagues in Puerto Rico and Spain. The book I have published through SUNY Brockport open access is in Spanish and having it in an electronic open access format had helped me to share it with faculty and students from other countries. I know that some faculty in Puerto Rico are using this electronic book for some of their courses.”

Amaury Samalot - Rivera, PhD, Department of Kinesiology, Sport Studies, and Physical Education

“A few older articles of my research are posted after checking that there are no legal copyright issues. I am astounded that the number of downloads over the years has reached a level of several hundreds.”

Markus Hoffmann, Professor, Department of Chemistry and Biochemistry

“We have received significant coverage of our scholarship and service articles. We both feel confident that anyone reading our work will see the tremendous application potential they have to improve the human condition.”

Gary Metz, MS, MPA, MAC, CPP, Associate Professor, Department of Healthcare Studies

While there wasn’t room to share all the quotes, this representative sampling shows some of the advantages our faculty experience when sharing their articles through open access.
