Student Spotlight: Art major beautifies parking meter with meaningful messages.

Student Nick Viele responded to the call to paint parking meters. See photos.

Nick with Meter

Q&A with sculpture major Nick Viele:

Q: "Nick, you answered the call to help Parking and Transportation “art-up” some parking meters. We are extremely honored and grateful. Can you give us the inspiration behind this?"

A: "I guess it all boils down to the simple fact that it doesn't hurt to be nice. I don't see why we can't help out one another. Also, I'm a dad... a father of four with a three-week old. As much as I would love to support my fellow students at The College at Brockport, sometimes I just can't get out there to do so. These meters are a way to give back and show my support for the arts and all my fellow students here at Brockport!"

Q: "Can you share a little of your background with us (such as your major, aspirations, and any work you have done in the past)?"

A: "I'm currently a sculpture major, with a minor in art history. I've been wanting to get back to school for a long time; I unfortunately had to put my college career on hold to take care of my mother who developed cancer. Unfortunately, she passed away in 2012. Still seems like yesterday. "Family first" was very important growing up and I continue to teach this to my kids every day. My mother was a single parent of three and made me the man I am today. So, it's very important to me to pass this on to my kids today. I want to show them with hard work, you can do anything. I want to do the best I can for them, my wife, and an angel above.

Past work I've done is as an alumnus for Monroe Community College's comic book class, with Franzie Weldgen. I donate a little time and create a comic for the book they release each semester. Franzie was a big inspiration to me coming on over to Brockport, as well as Susan Ferrari Rowley. BIG shout out to them! I also painted a table for Buffalo Bills Hall of Fame quarter back Jim Kelly. It actually led me to doing security work for his Hunter’s Hope Foundation for a few years. It was an amazing experience. I also donated a painting to raffle for the animals at our very own Seneca Park Zoo."

Q: "Rumor has it you plan to paint more parking meters. Can you share your ideas with us at this time?"

A: "As long as there is a want for my art, I would be honored to continue to help out any way I can. Currently, I am putting the finishing touches on an "awareness" meter. I wish I could have added more, but there is only so much room! Even though we may have had loved ones fall to an illness doesn't mean they aren't our warriors. I wanted to give something beautiful back when we go through times where everything seems to be going into a thousand different directions. If this meter provides just five minutes of peace to the person enjoying it, I've done my job. Every color on the meter represents a different cause, so if there's a certain color you see... yup, you guessed it, I wanted awareness for that. I did also include autism awareness; this one is especially important to me. My son is on the autism spectrum, and just because he doesn't look sick on the outside, or you can't see anything "wrong" with him, doesn't mean he doesn't battle every day. I love him with all my heart, and I know there are other parents out there with their little warriors!

We live in a world today where you can chat with someone on the other side of the globe with just a click of a button. I hope more people come out and talk about what they are going through instead of staying in the shadows. Everyone needs to know that YOU make this world a more interesting and better place to live in. I'm already starting on my next piece. I can't tell you a whole lot; just know I will try to top the one I've done before, so stay tuned! It will be out as soon as my studies are in order and a certain little three-week old boy allows me to. I want him and everyone to enjoy my art for years to come, along with bringing happiness. I also would like to prove and show to those who want to come back to school that you can do it! Take that first step and everything will fall into place. I have four children and a wife to take care of; if I can do it, you can!"
Thank you to my wife and kids; you are my world. And to all of you who I am blessed to have in my life that support me: Thank you for EVERYTHING. I couldn't do it without you!

Notable African scholar & literary figure

Michael Dei Anang of Ghana, and early chair of the African American Studies department,

Today's African American Studies department arose in the protest era of the late 1960s. The Black Student Liberation Front, predecessor of today's OSAD, was instrumental in achieving the establishment of the department. While there were a number of notable faculty in those early years, for example Ena Farley and Felix Okoye, today we are recognizing another outstanding figure, that of Michael Dei Anang.

A native of Ghana, he was a scholar, poet, playwright and political figure. We have books of his still in Drake Library. He was at Brockport from 1971-1978, when he passed away.

In a 1971 interview in the Stylus, he made some profound observations, including noting that "The foundations upon which men build their past is the basis of their future." He also observed that "We in Africa have something the Western world cannot ignore, and that is human spirit."

Lobby Hero, by Academy Award Winner Kenneth Lonergan, Begins Brockport Run

Comic drama takes an inside look at a New York City apartment building during the overnight shift

Jeff, played by Chris Speelman, is happy that Dawn, played by Emily Persevich, is the new cop on the beat in Kenneth Lonergan’s Lobby Hero, opening on Friday, February 23, 2018.

They guard us when it’s dark out: Firemen. Cops. But also, if you live in Manhattan, a night doorman. And while it is usually pretty quiet on those graveyard shifts, leaving the doorman to crack wise with any passerby, or try to make time with a rookie cop new to the beat, sometimes it can get quite intense while the city sleeps. This is the premise of Kenneth Lonergan’s Lobby Hero, the third production in the 50th anniversary season of The College at Brockport’s Department of Theatre and Music Studies. The play opens on Friday, February 23, 2018, at 7:30 pm. Performances take place in the Tower Fine Arts Center Black Box Theatre. Tickets are $17/General, $12/Seniors, Alumni, Faculty and Staff, and $9/Students.

2018 KSSPE Distinguished Lecture Series to Feature Two Outstanding Graduates

KSSPE’s 4th Annual Distinguished Lecture Series will honor ESPN’s Chrissy Williams (nee Scaffidi) and Golf Channel’s “The Morning Drive” Coach, Brian Jacobs. The event will be held on Wed. April 4, 7:30-9 pm.

Join faculty, students, alumni, and other interested guests as the Department of Kinesiology, Sports Studies, and Physical Education honors two meritorious alumni at their 4th Annual Distinguished Lecture Series, which will take place on Wednesday, April 4 from 7:30-9 pm in McQue Auditorium (LAB). This year’s speakers are Chrissy Williams (nee Scaffidi) and Brian Jacobs. Chrissy is a 2011 graduate with dual BS degrees in Sports Management and Communication Studies; she currently works for ESPN as Sales Communication Manager for the Midwest market. She has formerly served as one of three female announcers in all of baseball’s major and minor leagues, marketing assistant for the Green Bay Packers, and is a 2015 graduate of ESPN’s “Cornerstone of Leadership” program.

Brian has earned both his BS and MS degrees from Brockport. In addition to teaching Health for the past 30 years in the Rochester City School District, Brian has built a successful golf instruction business. He currently hosts a Golf Channel Academy at Ridgemont Country Club and is a frequent “Coach of the Week” on NBC’s popular show, the Morning Drive. He regularly contributes to Golf Channel’s digital magazine, PGA Magazine, and various golf podcasts on SIRIUS XM radio. He has previously taught for ESPN’s Golf Schools (East Coast Division) and was formally trained by Tiger Woods’ former swing coach, Hank Haney.

Celebrating Greek Life Through the Years

Come celebrate Greek organizations and their history on campus at The College at Brockport on February 28, 11 am - 3 pm in the Seymour College Union Main Lounge!
Inter-Greek Council invites the campus to join us through a walk down memory lane with our Greek Life Through the Years Celebration on Wednesday, February 28. Inter-Greek Council is comprised of the six recognized, chartered organizations on campus: Alpha Phi Alpha, Delta Phi Epsilon, Delta Sigma Theta, Pi Kappa Phi, Phi Sigma Sigma, and Zeta Phi Beta. IGC also recognizes our brand new colony: Lambda Sigma Upsilon. The Celebrating Greek Life Through the Years event, hosted by IGC and the Fraternity & Sorority Life office, is an event to honor all the hard work done by each chapter over the course of 25 to 36 years here at The College at Brockport. Each chapter will be bringing artifacts collected individually throughout the years, including memorabilia, composites, banners, awards, paddles, plaques and more! We invite you to attend as they showcase their historical contribution to our campus through their hard work, leadership, service, and philanthropy. Come celebrate Greek Life Through the Years, Wednesday, February 28, 11 am - 3 pm in the Union Main Lounge.
