Claire Goverts Presented at the AIR Forum: National Conference for Institutional Research

Claire Goverts, Assistant Director for Institutional Research, presented at the 2018 AIR Forum in Orlando, FL.

The first presentation was "Applying the AIR Code of Ethics in the Era of Alternative Facts", in collaboration with: Archie Cubarrubia, Vice Provost, Institutional Effectiveness, at Miami Dade College.

"Offices of Institutional Research often serve as the guardians of truth and the conscience of their respective institutions. We ensure that the data and analyses that we produce are not only accurate but that they are used appropriately to tell the story to which they can accurately speak. This can sometimes pose challenges in navigating institutional culture and practice, especially in the era of “alternative facts.” In this discussion group, we will review the AIR Code of Ethics and Professional Practice and address its application using small group case studies."

The chefs were given a mystery basket containing three proteins and nine other items all of which had to be used, while five ACF-certified judges critiqued and awarded points. Brockport’s winning menu included:

Seared Smoked Roasted Quail with Cranberry, Farro, and Walnut Salad

Medallions of Poached Lobster with Jicama-Chayote Slaw, Fermented Garlic Foam, and Avocado Pesto

Public Health Adjunct Faculty Brenden Bedard and Paul Pettit Selected to The Kresge Foundation’s Emerging Leaders in Public Health

Paul Pettit, Public Health Director, and Brenden Bedard, Deputy Public Health Director, of Genesee and Orleans County Health Departments will work to transform the role of public health in Genesee and Orleans as part of the Emerging Leaders initiative.

Kresge’s Emerging Leaders in Public Health was designed to provide public health leaders of county and local health departments to build additional knowledge and skills the challenges public health professionals face in their communities. The initiative is designed to develop local public health leaders in pairs and each pair includes the health officer and a future leader from the public health agency. As a team, Paul and Brenden will be asked to challenge and support each other while building skills and competencies together.

“Public health leaders are valuable assets to our communities,” said Dr. Phyllis Meadows, senior advisor to The Kresge Foundation’s Health Program and the Emerging Leaders in Public Health lead. “Leaders in this program will have the opportunity to create meaningful and lasting change in their agencies that will positively impact those they serve.”
