Dear Kim,

Thank you for contacting MPublishing.

I'm afraid we don't hold the copyright to Michigan Botanist, and so we can't grant the permission you seek. If you contact Todd Barkman (todd.barkman@wmich.edu), the current editor of Michigan Botanist, he may be able to answer your question.

Also, you may already have realized this, but the article (and all of Michigan Botanist 24) are archived in the HathiTrust repository: http://hdl.handle.net/2027/mdp.39015029420836 . The institutions making up HathiTrust have made a commitment to long-term preservation of deposited materials, so if you choose to link to Hathi from your repository you can be confident that the article won't disappear.

If you are able to obtain permission from the copyright holder to host the article, you may download it from HathiTrust and rehost it, despite the Google permissions message you may see on that page. I've checked on this on your behalf.

Please let me know if there's anything else I can do to help.

Best,
Jason

Our repository is the institutional archive, maintained at the Drake Memorial Library, for research and scholarship emanating from The College at Brockport. A single electronic version will be archived and become available for viewing by visitors to the Library’s Digital Commons site. For more information about the repository or its policies, please contact me at the email or phone below.

May we have permission to deposit an electronic version of these articles?

Thank you for your assistance.
