EDITORIAL PREFACE

The generous support of John W. Atherton, Dean of the Faculty of Humanities, Robert Gemmett, Chairperson of the Department of English and Martha Onan, Chairperson of the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures of the State University of New York/ College at Brockport has made possible this the second volume of LITERARY ONOMASTICS STUDIES. The good reception of Volume One (1974) was especially heartening in view of the difficulties new journals face in an era of dwindling finances; responsive readership is our main hope for the future of the journal, as it has been our goal in the past.

Literary Onomastics is a new dimension in literary criticism. It is a new discipline in a specialized area in which scholars are concerned with the significance of names in drama, poetry and fiction in any language. These include the names of places, characters, cosmic symbols and so forth, as these relate to theme, structure and other literary considerations.

The majority of articles in Volume Two are revised versions of papers delivered at the Conference on Literary Onomastics, 1974, which met in Rochester, New York, on June 10 and 11--only the second meeting in the United States and Europe devoted entirely to the subject. Anna Bojczun's article was given as a paper at the first conference, in 1973. We want to expand the journal to include articles other than those given originally as papers at the conference. A modest expansion was made possible this year. We are pleased to have Walter P. Bowman's contribution, especially in view of his enthusiastic support of literary onomastics and his work as Associate Editor of the first issue of LITERARY ONOMASTICS STUDIES.

The editors wish to express profound gratitude to those who have supported the journal and especially to those who helped prepare the copy: Peg Manchester, Karen Heaney, Ruthe Young, Marguerite Sunseri, Thelma Weader and June Hart. Richard A. Henshaw of the Colgate Rochester Divinity School/ Bexley Hall/ Crozer Theological Seminary kindly helped with the Hebrew characters in A.F. Beringause's article. The Editor would like to thank Dr. Byrd Granger, President of the American Name Society, 1974, for support in the effort to make LITERARY ONOMASTICS, III (1975) a reality.
