CRIMINAL JUSTICE

November 15, 1988

TO: Dr. Robert J. Smith, Chair
Curriculum Committee

FROM: R. R. Deming, Chair RRD
Department of Criminal Justice

RE: Minor Changes Enhancing the Criminal Justice Curriculum

On November 14, 1988, the Criminal Justice faculty in unity approved the following modifications in our curriculum:

1. CRJ 494 Criminology, should be moved from the co-requisite category to the criminal justice core, raising the total core credits from 21 to 24 credits.

Explanation: This is essentially an accounting matter. The Sociology Department once offered the course SOC 372 Criminology. So we accepted either the SOC 372 Criminology or CRJ 494 Criminology. Now that the Department of Sociology is not offering its course as we are offering ours exclusively, it is more logical to list it as part of the criminal justice core.

2. The Department of Criminal Justice wishes to remove the two (2) required emphases (concentrations), Corrections and Law Enforcement.

Explanation: We wish to remove the mandated concentrations to permit students to build their own concentrations consistent with their desires and our curriculum. Students would be advised of courses which are principally relevant to the following concentrations:

Police
Corrections
Security
International Criminal Justice
Legal Studies
General Criminal Justice

This model conforms to the diverse career opportunities existing in the criminal justice professions.
